

Health care benefits for incarcerated youth before and after release

Oregon is working to provide limited Oregon Health Plan (OHP) benefits to youth transitioning out of carceral facilities. These include:

- County juvenile detention facilities
- County jails
- Oregon Youth Authority facilities
- Oregon Department of Corrections facilities
- Federal Prison
- Tribal jails

These benefits are known as the Reentry Health Care benefits and cover services that fall under Section 5121 of the Federal Consolidated Appropriation Act \(FCAA\) of 2023. They're designed to improve health outcomes for justice-involved youth.

What are the new benefits?

Reentry Health Care benefits will cover 30 days of pre-release services and 30 days of post-release services to support successful reentry into the community.

Qualified providers can offer and bill Medicaid for post-release services starting in 2026. They will be able to offer and bill pre-release services starting no earlier than January 1, 2027.

Benefits include:

- Preventative health screenings and diagnostics in alignment with Early and Periodic Screening, Diagnostic, and Treatment (EPSDT) benefits
- Targeted Case Management

- Assessment of needs
- Development of a person-centered care plan based on assessment
- Referrals to services identified in care plan
- Follow-up to ensure care plan is implemented
- 30 days post-release care coordination (finding healthcare providers, scheduling appointments, etc.)

Who qualifies?

To qualify for these benefits, youth must be:

- Eligible for Medicaid or Children's Health Insurance Programs (CHIP)
- Under age 21 or under age 26 for those who have aged out of the foster care system
- Post adjudicated (sentenced)
- Within 30 days before release from a carceral facility or within 30 days post-release from a carceral facility

About the Consolidated Appropriation Act

In 2022, President Biden signed the Consolidated Appropriations Act (CAA). The Act requires State Medicaid agencies to:

- Offer incarcerated youth Early and Periodic Screening, Diagnostic and Treatment (EPSDT) health-related screenings and diagnostics
- Continue care and case management after release
- Restore Medicaid and CHIP (Children's Health Insurance Program) benefits to eligible youth after release
